The son of David, King of the Jews, the crucified Savior, reigns - he is King of paradise. The kingship of Christ is exercised even from the cross in St. Luke's view of the story of Jesus' life, death, and resurrection. In his death on the cross, Jesus accomplishes his Father's will. Through his resurrection, Christ initiates the outpouring of the Holy Spirit that will form the church and open the kingdom of God. The words of Jesus to the criminal hanging with him are not only comfort to the crucified thief. They are also words, addressed to us who follow Christ, our king and our savior. We believe that he will lead us to paradise as well.

“Let us carry our crosses with love; let us see that they do not become a burden to others, but let us help others carry theirs.” ~St. John Bosco

The Feast of Christ the King today marks the end of this liturgical year. Next Saturday at sunset, the season of Advent begins as we move into Cycle A of the lectionary of readings.

KNOW A SAINT St. Catherine of Alexandria – November 25

St. Catherine was born in Alexandria of a noble family and was converted to Christianity through a vision. She denounced Maxentius for persecuting Christians and in turn fifty of her converts were burned to death. She was sent to prison and while there she converted Maxentius' wife and 200 of his soldiers. They were all put to death along with her. St. Catherine was one of the voices heard by Joan of Arc. When we live a life of truth and justice we can expect the forces of evil to oppose us. Our perseverance in good will be everlasting.

Liturgy Matters #3

As we begin our journey through the mass, it is important to recognize in this journey, the realization of an “ideal mass”, that is, one in which all the elements of the liturgy come together. We cannot get tangled up in questions of a practical nature concerning how well or how poorly a particular celebration happens. If we have had bad experiences of liturgical celebrations, where the ritual is performed poorly or not as envisioned by the Church, we should set that aside at present, (and at each time we begin a new mass), and imagine the liturgy as it is meant to be celebrated, with every person and every part working at the highest level. So, we must imagine a “big” liturgy; that is, a Sunday or even a major feast, where a large number of people has assembled for the celebration. From the beginning, Sunday has been the preeminent day for Christians to gather together in prayer, since on Sunday Christ rose from the dead, and every Sunday celebrates his Resurrection by the celebration of Eucharist. The Sunday celebration inevitably marks the whole day, making a day completely given over to prayer, to rest in God, to the joy of our communion with one another, to the joy of our salvation. Keeping this in mind, we must stop to consider our attitude after mass when we leave the church. Do we continue to greet everyone with this joy? Are we patient and even charitable in the parking lot as we leave? Do we offer the day for the glory of God? This is the ideal, and we should protect it from cultural encroachments and lifestyles that undermine such a sense of Sunday. Having roughly established a mindset for entering the mystery of the mass, we will begin to examine the role of the bishop or priest and then move on to the rite itself.
