Reflection Question for the Thirteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Message from Fr. Rolling-Of the many qualities I admire in Fr. Bruno, his trust in the Lord stands out. Psalm 37:5 says, "Commit your way to the Lord, Trust also in Him." The earth's circumference is 24,901.461 miles. Fr. Bruno's trust in the Lord inspired him to generously and voluntarily travel over 13,000 miles to serve Christ in this community for six years. I am grateful to Fr. Bruno for extending to me the same genuine smile and warm spirit you know so well. I look forward to meeting each of you, the souls he served with great love (John 15:13).

From America's earliest days, the pineapple has been a symbol of hospitality. American colonists bought the fruit from ships carrying it from the Caribbean. In demand and rare it was a gift they shared with guests. Hospitality. In our Sunday readings, a married couple show hospitality to Elisha (Kings 4:8-11, 14-16). They don't offer a pineapple, but they do invite him to dinner, invite him to stay in their home, and even more, bless him with their friendship. In Matthew 10:37-42, Jesus teaches that our love for God is the measure of true hospitality. "Whoever loses his life for my sake will find it." "Whoever receives me receives the one who sent me." Whoever offers a cup of water to someone "because the little one is a disciple – amen, I say to you, he will surely not lose his reward." God rewards generosity. 2 Corinthians 9:6 says, "the one who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and the one who sows generously will also reap generously." God has sown generously with the freedoms codified in the U.S. Constitution and Bill of Rights. As we celebrate the freedoms God has given each American this Fourth of July, let us be generous in blessing family and friends, God and neighbor, for the abundance of freedom we have received.

Liturgy Matters #35

Now we have received, we have been given the manna from heaven, the food of angels; what a gift, what a grace. As we sit in silence, in contemplation of the wondrous gift we have received, we are struck with awe at the fact that God should speak to us, our response can only be silence. But now our silence is even deeper, for we are struck with awe at the entire mystery of our faith concentrated into what has just happened; namely, that the eternal Son should become incarnate and share himself with us in this most intimate of ways.

There are two prayers in the large book from which the priest prays, which are printed there just to aid his own devotion at the moment of receiving communion. And so they are not generally known among the faithful. But those prayers can be a wonderful indicator of how we might speak to Jesus in this moment of silence. "With faith in your love and mercy, I eat your body and drink your blood..." Or, "By your holy body and blood free me from all my sins, from every evil. Keep me faithful to your teaching, and never let me be parted from you."

The closing prayer, or prayer after communion, brings together all of the liturgical units of the whole mass. The priest says, "Let us pray," and the assembly as one stands again. Using some phrase or image from the feast or the day in question, the priest prays that the sacrament bear fruit in us and that we remain faithful to all that we have received. The "Amen" of the people is said immediately in response to this prayer, but it is an Amen that closes the entire unit that began with the Lord's Prayer.
